SINT EUSTATIUS CELEBRATES

CENTURIES-OLD TIES TO U.S.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SINT EUSTATIUS, Netherlands Antilles -- Each year on November 16, the tiny island of St. Eustatius in the Dutch Windward Islands goes all out to celebrate its historic links with the United States. Two-hundred-and-six years ago this November, the island authorities ordered the guns of the island's Fort Oranje to return a salute fired by a U.S. warship. By this act they became the first government anywhere to recognize the sovereignty of the infant nation to the north.

Ceremonies and celebrations will mark Statia-America Day this year as they have in the past. A pre-dawn ceremony in the historic (and newly restored) Fort Oranje will include a rendition of the island hymn, "The Golden Rock" by the island marching band and the assembled schoolchildren. The hymn specifically mentions the long-lasting friendship between the U.S. and St. Eustatius.

This year's celebration will also see the dedication and opening of a new Community Center, featuring the island's first tennis court, a 300-seat auditorium and other sports facilities. Street dancing, general merriment and a recreation of the historic salute are all part of Statia-America Day.

For further information about St. Eustatius, contact the St. Eustatius Tourist Information Office, 25 West 39 Street, New York, N. Y. 10018, or call (212) 840-6655.

TRADEWINDS II AT CUPECOY

TO OPEN THIS WINTER

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

PHILIPSBURG, St. Maarten -- "Tradewinds II at Cupecoy" on Dutch St. Maarten will open with 65 rooms in time for the winter season.

Located opposite the Cupecoy Beach Club Hotel, Tradewinds II will feature double rooms with bath and one- and two-bedroom suites, all with garden view. Rates have not been set. Tennis courts and a casino are currently under construction.

Guests may use the facilities--restaurant, beach, swimming pool--of the Cupecoy Beach Club Hotel. Golf, tennis and other activities are available at the nearby Sheraton Mullet Bay Beach Hotel.

Tradewinds I, opened earlier this year also features double rooms and one- and two-bedroom suites. Daily rates, Dec. 19 - April 10, 1983, for Tradewinds I are $100 and $140 for a double room with bath; $230 per couple for a one-bedroom suite; and $330 for a two-bedroom apartment that can accommodate four.

For further information and rates for Tradewinds I, II and the Cupecoy Beach Club Hotel contact Reservation Systems, Inc., 6 East 46 Street, New York, NY 10017 or call (212) 661-4540.

"AND BABY MAKES THREE (OR FOUR)"

ON A ST. MAARTEN FAMILY HOLIDAY

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The arrival of a newborn baby may change a lot of family routines but it need not cancel plans for a midwinter vacation, particularly if you choose St. Maarten as your destination. The island's wide range of apartment-style accommodations, its well-stocked markets, child care services and low-cost airfares make vacationing with little ones surprisingly easy and economical.

Most of St. Maarten's spacious apartment accommodations feature kitchenettes, dining areas and shaded balconies or terraces -- perfect settings for family holidays. The apartments offer privacy as well as the flexibility needed for seeing to tiny travelers' needs. Mealtimes and naptimes needn't be disturbed and the balmy winter temperatures give tots plenty of time outdoors.

A plus for parents -- many of the apartments are located in full-service hotels with a variety of facilities -- swimming pools, restaurants, casinos, nightclubs and watersports. Daily rates begin at $110 double occupancy for an apartment or villa that can accommodate a family of two adults and two children. Meals are not included. At many hotels small children can stay free and older children are eligible for discounted rates at some.

There are money-saving opportunities during your flight as well. Children under two travel free on scheduled airlines if you are willing to hold them on your lap during the flight. Besides the scheduled airlines, a number of tour operators this winter are offering charter packages from $459 per person, double occupancy, (EP), for apartment accommodations. These packages include round-trip airfare, airport-hotel transfers, accommodations with private bath for seven nights, baggage handling, gratuities for bellmen and maids, plus a number of extras that vary depending on the hotel. Be sure to check with your travel agent about additional costs, if any, for children under two. Your agent can also help make arrangements in advance for having a portable crib waiting in your room when you and the baby arrive.

When you want a few hours just to yourselves for dining or disco-ing or casino-hopping, most hotels will arrange for an experienced babysitter. Sitters' fees average about $5 an hour. For parents who want a day to explore St. Maarten or one of the neighboring islands, there's a day care center operated by Mrs. Paula Matser, a registered nurse. Mrs. Matser or one of her trained assistants will pick up your little one, provide meals according to your instructions and supervise nap and playtime. Best of all, she'll bathe and dress the baby in fresh togs in time for a late afternoon pick-up by (or delivery to) Mom and Dad. Mrs. Matser's rates begin at $15 daily and she can be reached in St. Maarten by dialing 3036.

There's no need to load yourself down with all of your baby's food and other accessories when traveling to St. Maarten. The island's food centers and specialty shops carry most U.S. brand name baby foods (strained juices, fruits, vegetables, meats and junior foods); disposable diapers (in assorted sizes from about US$3.75); and other items such as lotion, soap, bottles and light-weight clothing. Chances are you won't find your baby's particular formula in local markets, however, so take enough with you to last while you're on the island.

When packing for infants and toddlers remember to include simple cotton items, a sunhat or two, several favorite toys, and your folding umbrella stroller. This last item is indispensable when shopping along Philipsburg's Front Street. A lightweight stroller also provides your child with a handy seat when dining out.

It's a good idea to carry milk, juice and food the baby will need on a plane in a small insulated bag (the ones designed for six-paks are fine). When you need a bottle warmed the flight attendants will gladly take care of it. St. Maarten's bright tropical sun will greet you as you step from your flight, so take warm weather clothing and change your child just before the plane lands. One last thing: make sure your infant has something to suck on to relieve ear pressure during take-off and landing. A pacifier, bottle or thumb will do fine.

St. Maarten offers adults and children 36 powdery beaches -- delightful playgrounds -- duty-free shopping, more than 75 restaurants, sunny days and tropical nights. Bringing your small children to St. Maarten can be hassle-free and enjoyable for the whole family.

For further information contact the St. Maarten Tourist Office, 25 West 39 Street, New York, NY 10018; telephone (212) 840-6655.

LOOKING FOR AN AFFORDABLE HOLIDAY?

TRY ST. MAARTEN'S WINTER PACKAGES

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

If you're wondering how a Caribbean holiday will fit into your budget this winter, think St. Maarten. This popular half-Dutch/half-French getaway island is offering economical packages designed with inflation-harried vacationers in mind. The low-cost tours include not only accommodations in many of the island's most comfortable hotels but round-trip airfare and airport-hotel transfers when on St. Maarten. Some offer such "extras" as baggage handling, free chaise lounges, welcoming drinks and optional sightseeing, added bonuses that assure a carefree, fun-filled stay. None of the programs include meals but MAP plans (breakfast and dinner) are available at reasonable rates or you may opt for dining out in the island's many top-rated restaurants -- a highlight of any St. Maarten holiday.

Charter/tour operators offering departures from New York during the winter season include "Travel Impressions" with several one-week "Caribbean Beachcomber" programs priced from $319 - $619 from now through December 18, (from December 18 - 23 a special "pre-Christmas" package is $299 - $499); "Arthur Frommer Tours" with seven-night packages beginning at $329; "Carefree David" with four-, six- and seven night stays, ranging from $369 to $1089 between December 23 and January 9, 1983 (six- and seven-night plans from $369 to $1059 from January 3 - April 3, 1983). "Trans National Travel" also schedules New York departures from November through June, 1983, with week-long packages going for from $379 to $939; and "GWV Travel" in Newton Centre, Massachusetts, has seven-night charter packages from $389 to $1029 per person double occupancy effective January 1 - April 3, 1983 from New York. Greenwich, Connecticut's "Tour Trec" has flights scheduled for Tuesdays and Wednesdays throughout the winter. Seven-day stays are priced from $769 - $1369 between January 6 and April 17, 1983. In addition, "Tour Trec" has put together a special package which includes accommodations at the St. Maarten Beach Club Hotel and Casino for seven days from December 19 through April 3, 1983, plus a number of unusual "extras". The cost of this special offering is $869. All prices quoted are per person, double occupancy.

In addition, American Airlines is offering a Group Inclusive Tour (GIT) fare of $329 (weekdays) and $359 (weekends) to St. Maarten from New York, effective December 25 - April 10, 1983. Land packages for seven nights' accommodations and airport-hotel transfers may be purchased with this fare starting from $329 - $749 per person, double occupancy. These packages, effective January 3 - April 15, 1983, can be purchased with the GIT fare through Gogo, Cavalcade and Caribbean Holidays.

For further information concerning St. Maarten's winter packages, contact your travel agent or the charter/tour operator directly. For general information about St. Maarten, Saba and St. Eustatius, write the St. Maarten-Saba-St. Eustatius Tourist Information Office, 25 West 39 Street, New York, NY 10018, or call (212) 840-6655.

TENNIS FACILITIES AND CAR
RENTAL AVAILABLE ON STATIA

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

ST. EUSTATIUS, Netherlands Antilles -- Tennis will be available on Sint Eustatius for the first time this winter. Located at the newly constructed Community Center, the court has a concrete surface and is lighted for night play. Changing facilities are also available. There is a nominal charge for the use of the court.

The opening and dedication ceremonies for the Center and tennis facilities will take place on Statia-America Day, November 16, which commemorates the world's first salute to the new U.S. flag in 1776.

Maduro Car Rental has two new Toyota Starlites available for rent by the day, week or month. The daily rate, now until December 1, is $25 with unlimited mileage. From December 2-April 15 the daily charge will be $30. Gas is extra and weekly or monthly rates are available. A special "in-season" rate for mid-day visitors--those who arrive mid-day and depart late afternoon--is also offered at $10. For reservations, contact Mr. R. Smith at the WINAIR counter in St. Eustatius' Roosevelt Airport, or call 011-599-3-2296.
